Minneapolis, MN—The recipient of the Romantic Times 2007 Lifetime Achievement Award, Tracie Peterson is a long-standing favorite in inspirational fiction. Her signature blend of romance and adventure entertains and delights readers and critics alike. Returning to the beautiful and rugged Montana frontier, Peterson continues the saga of the three feisty, lovable Gallatin sisters in this second installment of her BRIDES OF GALLATIN COUNTY series.

“This story focuses on Beth, the fun and zany middle Gallatin sister,” who is, Peterson adds, while on the verge of finding love, also sorting through deep and difficult heart issues. “Beth is dealing with guilt over her father’s death and her feelings related to that event,” says Peterson. Because most people can relate to Beth and her struggle, Peterson wanted to show the hope and victory that comes from battling these inner struggles.

“Beth faces her own frustrations and secret guilt, coming to terms with those issues and letting go of her past,” says Peterson, adding, “Guilt is consuming and destructive, but we, as Christians, can nail it to the cross and leave it there.”

Beth Gallatin has always wanted to settle down in one town, with one man, and raise a family. With her father’s passing, she dares to dream this may actually come true—just like in the romances she loves to read.

Nick Lassiter has loved Beth since she first came to Gallatin. Yet just when he finally gets her to consider him, an unexpected arrival from his complicated past threatens the affection growing between them.

As a past fraught with unwise choices and guilt invades their world, will Nick and Beth find the courage to embrace love?

Praise for A Promise to Believe In:

“It’s wonderfully written, with strong characters and the right amount of faith, hope, romance, mystery and laughter.”—Romantic Times BOOKreviews
